

TECHNOLOGY for ACCOUNTABILITY LAB

Session<sup>1</sup>	Title	Presenter(s)
Week 1: Tech for Accountability	Course Introduction & Overview	Vivek Srinivasan, Program on Liberation Technology, Stanford University Scott Hubli, National Democratic Institute Sarah Welsh, National Democratic Institute
	Why Transparency is So Important	Larry Diamond, Stanford University
	Human Centered Design	Terry Winograd, Department of Computer Science, Stanford University
Week 2: Monitoring Corruption at the Grassroots	Technology for Accountability at the Grassroots	Vivek Srinivasan, Program on Liberation Technology, Stanford University
	Being 'SUAVE': Using Feature Phones for Transparency	Vivek Srinivasan, Program on Liberation Technology, Stanford University
	Smart Phones for Smarter Data	Asim Fayaz, University of California Berkeley
Week 3: Monitoring Parliaments	Supporting Effective Democratic Legislatures	Greg Brown, National Democratic Institute
	Building Disruptive Internal Conditions for Open Government	Cristiano Ferri Faria, Hacker Laboratory, Chamber of Deputies, Brazil
	SayIt by MySociety: A Tool for Transcripts	Dave Whiteland, MySociety
Week 4: Monitoring Elections and Political Funding	How Technology is Shaping Election Monitoring	Michael McNulty, National Democratic Institute
	Opening Political Funding with Technology	Lindsay Ferris, (formerly) Sunlight Foundation
	Making Political Funding Transparent in the Czech Republic	Viteslav Titl, EconLab, z.v. Prague, University of Siegen, KU Leuven Miroslav Palansky, Institute of Economic Studies, Charles University

<sup>1</sup> Order of sessions subject to change.

TECHNOLOGY for ACCOUNTABILITY LAB

Week 5: Monitoring the Private Sector	Transparency and the Private Sector	Alasdair Roberts, Truman School of Public Affairs, University of Missouri
	Beneficial Ownership and Corporate Transparency	Maggie Murphy, Transparency International
	An Introduction to Open Corporates	Vivek Srinivasan, Program on Liberation Technology, Stanford University
Week 6: Getting Citizens Involved	Crowdsourcing in Policy Making and Participatory Budgeting	Tanja Aitamurto, Stanford University
	Our City, Our Budget, Our Future	Whitney Smithers, City of Calgary
	How to Write a Constitution in the 21 st Century	Finnur Magnusson, Product Manager, Meniga
Week 7: Telling Stories with Data	Introducing Bedfellows: Software for Data Analysis	Derek Willis, ProPublica
	Open Content Licensing and Transparency	Timothy Vollmer, Creative Commons
Weeks 8-10: Project Completion	Course participants continue project collaborations and complete second round of peer assessment.	